

Fall 2011 Library Workshops at the GTU

All Workshops are free!

No need to sign up for a workshop—simply show up at the best time for you!
All workshops will be taught in the Teaching Lab at the GTU Library

---

Finding resources in GRACE

Graduate-level research requires more than basic searching. You will learn how to use GRACE, the GTU library's online catalog, to find books and other resources.

- Wednesday, September 14, 2:30-3:45
- Wednesday, September 21, 2:30-3:45

How to Use the ATLA Religion Database

This workshop will teach you how to use the ATLA Religion Database which has some of the most important tools for finding journal articles.

- Wednesday, September 14, 1:00-2:15
- Wednesday, September 28, 1:00-2:15

Using 360 Search and e-Journal Portal to Expand Your Research

360 Search is a combination of about 45 library databases to do a federated search for materials. This workshop will focus on some of the tricks needed to use the database effectively. Also to be presented is information about the e-Journal Portal page, a way to search for specific journals within databases.

- Wednesday, September 21, 1:00-2:15
- Wednesday, September 28, 2:30-3:45

Turabian

Ever wondered how to put a bibliography together? Puzzled by who or what is Turabian? What is the GTU's way of doing a bibliography? This workshop will decode the mysteries of creating a bibliography using the Turabian style, the GTU's accepted bibliographic method.

- Wednesday, October 5, 1:00-2:30

EndNote

Learn how to organize your references/citations and how to use EndNote software effectively. This is a "bare bones" class of the most commonly used features of EndNote.

- Tuesday, October 4, 9:00-10:30
- Tuesday, October 4, 11:00-12:30