Course description:
Aesthetics has become a major field of philosophical investigation since the 18th century, particularly since Immanuel Kant’s Critique of Judgment. This class will, however, try to integrate these insights with older metaphysical traditions of talking about art and beauty.

Aesthetics does not only explore the important question of value judgments in aesthetics. It also leads philosophy into the investigation of very concrete phenomena and problems: the structure of the human mind and the concrete materials of art and music, but also the society and its problems that are reflected therein. Nevertheless, philosophy and the arts find it difficult to talk to each other. This class will try to bridge the gap. The first part will focus on the philosophy of beauty in general. The following semester (Spring 2014) will explore the concrete fields of architecture, painting and music (and, if we have time, literature). Philosophical Aesthetics I is a prerequisite for the class in spring 2014.
The format of the class is a seminar; attendance and participation in the discussion is therefore important. Intended audience: MDiv, MA/MTS, PhD/ThD.

As an outcome, the student will have gained an understanding of the development of philosophical aesthetics and will be able to relate various thinkers and their positions. The student will have been exposed to the vast implications of this field of thought and gained insight into many fruitful applications of the questions of philosophical aesthetics. A further outcome for the student should be the ability to articulate him-/herself reflectively about art, music and other areas of aesthetics, be it orally or in research and writing.

Evaluation is based on:
1) Class participation and contribution to the discussions.
2) Taking turns in preparing texts that are to be discussed in class and possibly by a presentation on the paper research.
   1) and 2) include an evaluation of the following DSPT Institutional Goals:
   B.3 Collaborative Learning:

1 For some rubrics of evaluation for the Institutional Goals, please refer to the "Rubrics for Life-long Learning Skills" and "Rubrics for Effective Leadership" on the DSPT website.
B.2 Service Dimension, i.e. your contribution to the common good of the class:
  class preparation
  oral participation as appropriate
A.2 Intellectual Humility:
  listening to your peers in class
3) a 15-20pp research paper (75% of grade)
   This includes an evaluation of the DSPT Institutional Goals:
A.1 Integrative Thinking (as explained in the paper guidelines)
A.2 Intellectual Humility:
a. Academic work includes listening to the scholarly community; this is demonstrated in your research and use of your sources (books and journal articles) in the research paper.
A.3 Self-Direction
   Finding your own paper topic will demonstrate this ability.
B.1 Prophetic dimension
   Your paper and its topic can be an opportunity to show that you can identify relevant issues and address them.
B.3 Collaborative dimension
   Integrating feedback on your paper proposal.

Students will take turns in the class preparation: the format will be a three sentence summary of the main point the text is trying to make. These three sentences should be printed out and distributed to the other students at the beginning of class. This will not only help us to focus our discussion, it should also be a good exercise in trying to grasp the issue at hand. Further details of the text will be developed from there in the session.
An additional expectation is that you give at least one example (more is not always better) to illustrate the author’s theory/issue (we will have a “smart” classroom). This can be prepared in consultation with me (long literary examples or long pieces of music are less practical, poems or images are always easiest). I will often have examples on my own as well.
The research paper can consist in a comparison of two authors on a particular topic of aesthetics. It could be also the investigation into a particular problem of aesthetics, with the use of relevant authors and resources. It can also be (and this is more difficult) a case-study of a specific work of art, music or literature, provided it includes research on this work, and the application of one or more of the theories that are studied during the semester.
For this purpose, I ask you to give me a paper proposal by TH 10/31. This proposal should consist of a short paragraph, describing the topic of your choice, and a bibliography. The bibliography is most important. Please make your bibliography as specific as possible. Do not quote general handbooks or the textbooks of the class. As one possible research tool I recommend the “philosopher’s index” that is available on the GTU library website. But for this field there are obviously many more resources, partly even outside of philosophy (e.g. art history).
The deadline for the paper is TH 12/12
Class attendance is mandatory. Attendance and participation will impact the grade. I would like you to forgo the use of laptops during the class sessions.

Paper Guidelines
The topic of your paper can be a comparison of two philosophers on a given issue. There are many other possibilities, although I discourage papers that are merely descriptive of one philosopher’s thought. I would like you to integrate two thinkers or a conversation around an issue across the ages. I do encourage you to use topics of your own interest or background. There are many graduate student conferences now; you might want to write a paper with an eye to presenting it in such a venue. An increasing number of students have done so successfully. The topic is, however, subject to approval. You can talk to me before or after your proposal.

The paper is a research paper (15-20 pages, 12pt, double space). Hence I expect you to research and use secondary literature. This is to be documented in the use of footnotes (not endnotes!) and in a bibliography.

The bibliography is most important. Please make your bibliography as specific as possible. I would like to see at least three pertinent journal articles in your bibliography; this is more important than generic books. As a help: please use the “philosopher’s index” at the GTU library, although this might only provide you with a starting point. Topics without pertinent literature are not viable; if it requires extensive research on primary texts, you should leave it for your dissertation.

To avoid some common pitfalls: please focus on your topic. There is no need for biographical introductions on philosophers. (Biographical details can, of course, be brought in, if they explain some subject matter.)

Please avoid flowery or cryptic language. Be as sober as possible. Building literary smoke screens will not make your paper appear more profound, but only less intelligible. Focus on making arguments and positions clear.

Do some proofreading. If English is your second language, it can be a good idea to ask someone else to help you. Please do write complete sentences that have a grammatical structure. (Unfortunately that does not always seem to be self-understood.) Shorter sentences can make that easier. Grammatical correctness is more important than political correctness (e.g. do not use “they” as a singular).

Subdividing it into chapters (with headlines) can help the structure of your paper. It will help the clarity of your own thought process – as well as that of the reader. Please use page numbers.

Plagiarism is unacceptable and will result in a failing grade.

Proposal
The proposal is due the class after reading week. It consists in 2 or 3 sentences, stating your topic, plus a pertinent bibliography. (Please do not include the textbooks of the class.) This exercise is meant to help you to clarify your topic and focus your bibliography; after that, the paper should come easy. It is also a good exercise for a future thesis proposal. The topic is subject to approval.
